We have made obsolescence, obsolete

AST has a history of introducing innovative products that meet the needs of personal computer users. From the beginning, sophisticated users appreciated the technically superior AST enhancement products. The AST name continues to be associated with the words "quality" and "reliability".

AST has continued this reputation with the release of CUPID-32 architecture.

CUPID stands for Completely Universal Processor I/O Design. This means that you can buy computers with the right level of performance for your requirements today and in the future, when you require more processing power, you do not need to invest in an entire new computer system. CUPID-32 allows you to upgrade your existing computers by replacing one board with another. The savings, both in terms of money and time are tremendous.

Which Computer Should I buy Today?

AST currently has a wide range of computer systems available to suit your needs. From entry level 286 desktops to the high performance 486/33 EISA floor standing series.
